

A Tiny Chat Companion: Responding to the CDC Order

Recipe for Responding to CDC Order

(1) State/local court order regarding CDC Order.

- A state/local order could include:
 1. Changes to landlord pleading requirements;
 2. Summons requirements;
 3. Amendments to standardized eviction forms;
 4. Clarifying that judges should ask about the declaration before finalizing an eviction;
 5. Addressing whether challenges to the declarations are permitted, and if so, setting out a process;
 6. Addressing whether cases determined to be covered by the CDC Order are dismissed;
 7. Requiring landlords to inform the court upon receipt of declaration after the case is filed; and
 8. Guidance to courts/judges.
- Two courts have adopted CDC orders that may be models: Supreme Court of Texas: <https://www.txcourts.gov/media/1449728/209109.pdf> and Rhode Island District Court: <https://www.courts.ri.gov/Courts/districtcourt/PDF/20-06.pdf>

(2) Court training and education outreach re: court order and CDC Order.

(3) Clear communication to landlords, tenants and the courts about court order and CDC Order.

- Examples of courts with good resources for self-represented litigants about the CDC Order include: Alaska: <http://www.courts.alaska.gov/covid19/evictions-faq.htm> and Utah: <https://www.utcourts.gov/howto/landlord/eviction.html>

(4) Stakeholder outreach re: court order and CDC Order.

(5) Collaboration (including setting up eviction diversion programs).

- Examples of eviction diversion programs that have launched or are being stood up include: Michigan, Circuit Court of Cook County, Washington State, Indiana, Kentucky.
